Using his 1st hand experience of the elite pitstop crew, changing wheels in less than 2 seconds, & winning World Championships with superstars like Lewis Hamilton, Marc teaches the mindset & strategy required to make accurate, pressurised decisions fast, whilst constantly performing at the highest level.

How do you build high performing teams? Foster an organisational culture to breed innovation? Market yourself differently to the competition? Use data to create advantages? Get buy-in from your team when going through change?

These are challenges faced by all sectors, all the time, & Marc, together with Formula One, has some fascinating ideas on how to solve them.
